

Comparative Aspects on Culture and Religion: India, Russia, China

Conference in Bangalore 2011 organized by SRC and CSCS

DATE: 15th and 16th September, 2011

VENUE: Seminar room, CSCS

827, 29th Main Road, Poornaprajna HBCS Layout,
Uttarahalli, Bangalore - 560061 INDIA

<http://www.cscsarchive.org/contact>

This conference is a cooperative international conference organized by the Slavic Research Center (SRC) of Hokkaido University (Japan) and the Center for the Study of Culture and Society (CSCS) (India).

The Eurasian regional powers—Russia, China and India—have social and spiritual cultures that cannot be explained solely by Western nation-state theory and democratic measures. Through the cooperation of Eurasian cultural researchers, this project will examine how these countries' past identities, which were rooted in the idea of the spheres of civilization they led, impact on their current state in the cultural environments of the modern world, and what the major characteristics are of the Eurasian world as a cultural sphere.

1st day Chaired by S. V. Srinivas and Ashish Rajadyaksha

Session 1: Religion and Pluralism (09:30–11:45)

Sitharamam, Vadim Zhdanov, Sanami Takahashi

Session 2: Religion and Art (12:00–13:30)

Bennet Zon, Takako Inoue

Session 3: Cultural Interaction (14:30–16:45)

Saroj Giri, Tetsuo Mochizuki, Go Koshino

2nd day Chaired by Takako Inoue and Tetsuo Mochizuki

Session 4: Intellectual Property (09:30–11:45)

Takahiro Sato & Atsuko Kamiike, Jinying Li, Lawrence Liang

Session 5: Popular Culture (12:00–13:30)

S. V. Srinivas, Yoko Takayama

Session 6: Gender and Culture (14:30–16:45)

Hisae Komatsu, Radhika, Anagha Bhat-Behere